

INVITATION TO IMPROVE YOUR 2010 GOLF SEASON

We are finally beginning to see the back of a long hard winter with very little golf played. So now is the time to you should be thinking about stepping up your practice with some of the great range bonus offers from the new management at Drivetime, plus aim to get your mental attitude to your golf and practice up to speed by attending one of our unique Mind Factor evenings with European Tour psychologist Karl Morris says Drivetime's Head Pro Adrian Fryer.

Golf is accepted as one of the hardest games to master and maintain the art of good ball striking and scoring. The more I coach players at every level, the more I have become aware that to enjoy golf and compete to your full potential you need a disciplined approach to tuition and the manner you apply and practice what you have learnt. The nature of learning and embedding skills means indiscriminate ball bashing doesn't work but understanding how your brain memorises skills and allows you to recall those good swings under pressure would certainly be a great asset to any player.

Even the game's elite struggle with the mental game. How many Majors could Sergio Garcia win if he could just manage his emotions and thoughts better? It's never too late for him or you to think better and improve your mental handicap.

WHAT'S YOUR MENTAL HANDICAP?

- Strike the ball better on the range than in competition?
- Always worried about your handicap going up?
- Often let that great round collapse over the last few holes?
- Nervous when playing with better players?
- Cannot reproduce those good swing feelings each game?
- Practising your faults all the time?

If the above sounds familiar reserve your place on one of our Mind Factor evening right now! Turn over for more info-

APRIL/MAY MIND FACTOR EVENTS

Mind Factor Event Thurs 15th April –7.00-9.30pm Drivetime Function Suite
Ladies Mind Factor Event Thurs 6th May- 7.00-9.30 Drivetime Function Suite

At Drivetime along with Europe’s leading Mind Coach Karl Morris we are offering two evening seminars where Karl will share the ‘secrets’ to improving your game without having to change your golf swing. Much of the information presented is normally reserved for Tour Players who pay thousands. Karl has worked successfully with many world-class performers from the world of golf, cricket and snooker. Michael Vaughan, Freddy Flintoft, Jimmy White, Lee Westwood, Graeme McDowell, Darren Clarke, along with Ladies Tour players Alison Nicholas, Trish Johnson and Lisa Hall have all benefited from working with Karl on controlling their mental game. At these exclusive events you can now acquire some of the tools and strategies enabling you to practice and play golf more efficiently plus lower your ‘mental handicap’ seeing an improvement in your scoring and enjoyment on the course.

So what are waiting for? Become the best golfer you really can be!
